

Materials:

18 2.5" x WOF strips (I used a Riley Blake Rolie Polie of "Bloom and Bliss")
¾ yd neutral fabric
½ yd border fabric
2 yds backing fabric
½ yd binding fabric

Cutting instructions:

Cut neutral fabric into (9) 2.5" strips
Cut border fabric into (5) 3" strips
Cut binding fabric into (5) 2.5" strips

Sewing Instructions:

Use a 1/4" seam allowance throughout.

Sew 2 print strips to either side of a neutral strip. Press seams toward the darker side. Make 9 strip sets.

Cut the strip sets into 6.5" squares. You should have 6 squares from each set, with a little left over for another project.

Arrange squares in vertical columns on point as shown, or imitate a faux woven look, or arrange randomly. Sew blocks together first into diagonal rows, press rows alternating directions, then sew rows together. Center the 2 corner units by leaving a quarter inch on each side of the center block of the next row. Press rows any direction.

Trim the outer triangles $\frac{1}{4}$ " away from points of the outside squares, leaving a seam allowance to sew on the border.

Sew border fabric strips end to end for length. Measure the sides of the now rectangular quilt top and cut side pieces accordingly. Pin and sew side borders and press out. Measure top and bottom, cut border strips, and pin, sew, and press out. Quilt top will be approximately 38" by 50".

Quilt as desired.

Sew binding strips ends together at a 45° angle, and press in half lengthwise. Sew to outside of the quilt, miter corners, measure and connect ends. Fold binding over to the back of the quilt and sew down.

Here are some alternate color and layout options:

